Description

Fifteen-year-old James Ciar is assigned a classified mission by his father to infiltrate a private academy and kill the attending supernatural blooded students. In a society plagued with hatred, he must discover what truly defines a person as good or evil. James must build friendships with the purpose of severing them. He has led a pampered, isolated life, and doesn't know how ill-prepared he is for the task at hand. Upon his arrival to the unorthodox school, James soon uncovers deeper secrets than he could've anticipated. He must eliminate his targets before his own blood is shed, but his determination wavers when he grows fond of the purple-eyed beauty, Ayla, and athletic goofball, Takanashi. All of a sudden, James' first-ever friendships develop into unexpected relationships that distort his reality. Is it possible for the supernatural students to restore a corrupt teen's faith in humanity? Or will they turn out to be just as evil as society makes them out to be?
