Bernard Reginster. Cloth, $The Affirmation of Life is a well written and thoughtful book which aims at bringing out the affirmative and systematic facet of Nietzsche's philosophy that runs against the disorderliness of his writings and the frequent nihilistic Reginster focuses on a central aspect of Nietzsche's thought--the threat of nihilism and the conditions under which life can be affirmed. Reginster is the first to reconstruct Nietzsche's position on nihilism systematically, and his book will set the terms of the debate on this crucial issue for a long time. Replete with deeply original insights on many familiar--and frequently misunderstood--Nietzschean concepts, Reginster's book will be essential to anyone approaching this towering figure of Western intellectual history.
