

I'm not robot

I am not robot!

Mia at first glance is "normal" compared to her siblings. Mia sits impatiently through dinner. An award-winning book from the author of Jeremy Fink and the Meaning of Life and The Candymakers for fans of Wonder and Counting by Sevens, Mia Winchell has synesthesia, the mingling of perceptions whereby a person can see sounds, smell colors. Her well-defined characterizations, natural-sounding dialogue, and concrete imagery allow readers to feel Mia's emotions and see through her eyes a kaleidoscopic world, which is at once confusing and beautiful. Jenna's father actually farms his land; he grows soybeans and the A Mango-Shaped Space is a great book for kids. It is a touching story about a young girl named Mia, her best friend, and her cat. It takes longer than it should to get home because we have to walk all the way around the Davises' fields. Mia agrees to tell her while she looks for Mango, who has disappeared. She has a perspective that was different. To Mia the letter a glows with faded sunflower-yellow, screeching chalk sizzles with jagged red sparks, and her cat's voice puffs with orange-mango haze. After hearing about synesthesia, Beth says that she thinks it is interesting, which surprises Mia. The sisters find Mango, who is hiding in a pile of hats and gloves. Ages 8-12. Download and read the ebook version of A Mango-Shaped Space by Wendy Mass on Apple Books but Mia can see colors in numbers and letters. I fell in love with it the second I read the back of the book. When Mia returns home, Beth asks her to tell her about her synesthesia. She also sees the colors in sounds. But how can Mia "the Missing" pdf? His eyes dart from the wooden cuckoo clock to the fluorescent star-shaped one, over to the big digital one, down to the clock in the shape of a train, and across to the electronic. Meet-the-Author Recording of A Mango-Shaped Space; Audio Excerpt from A Mango-Shaped Space; Name Pronunciation with Wendy Mass; Grade 4; Genre: Realistic Fiction; Fast Shipping · Explore Amazon Devices · Deals of the Day · Shop Our Huge Selection A Mango-Shaped Space is a book about a year-old girl named Mia, her family and her cat named Mango.