

I'm not robot

I am not robot!

In this widely quoted and anthologized article, first published in, Theodore Levitt argues that “the history of every dead and dying ‘growth’ industry shows a self-eiving cycle of Globalization is the process in which people, ideas and goods spread throughout the world, spurring more interaction and integration between the world's cultures, governments and economies